

BATTLES TO BRIDGES

Transformative Ways to Handle Difficult Relationships

This seminar will give participants tools to transform hurtful battles into hopeful bridges of connection and understanding. You'll be guided through the contested ground of difficult relationships. Participants will learn "The Art of the Difficult Conversation," an approach and techniques for effectively handling stressful communications. "Winning More Than the Battle" will give you a set of basic questions and approaches that can convert conflicts into opportunities to improve and strengthen your relationships. You will learn by listening and by practicing during the workshop and you'll develop the confidence necessary to immediately apply these tools to improve your relationships and your life.

Saturday Nov. 23, 2013
Central Penn College
Room 206
10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.

Only $167 per person
Early Bird Rate: $147
Register by Nov. 8 for discount

Registration includes workbook, lunch, certificate of completion PLUS discounts for future coaching, sessions, seminars and workshops.

Register by November 8 to qualify for Early Bird Discount: <https://BattlestoBridges.eventbrite.com>
Registration deadline November 18, 2013

Meet Your Instructors

Robert Michael Donley is a Professor of Legal Studies at Central Penn College in Summerdale, PA, and a certified mediator specializing in interpersonal and workplace conflict. He is the proprietor of Donley Mediation Services, a conflict resolution and consulting firm based in Lebanon, PA. A native of Lebanon County, he has spoken to students and business and organization leaders throughout the eastern United States on conflict management and servant leadership.

Dr. Dilip R. Abayasekara, is CEO of Dr. Dilip, LLC, a speech coaching and training company, Summerdale, PA. He empowers others to apply communication and leadership principles to take them to higher levels of performance. He is the author of The Path of the Genie, Your Journey to Your Heart's Desire, and co-author of Public Speaking with Power, Passion, and Purpose. A past president of Toastmasters International, he is the Strategic Advisor to the President of Central Penn College, and is pursuing a Master of Divinity degree at Wesley Theological Seminary.

